Ford Pushes Economic Summit Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, his cabinet and key economic aides are beginning to lay the groundwork for a forthcoming Economic Summit Conference to battle inflation.

The President, launching a busy third week in office, also announced he will hold his first news conference Wednesday.

It will be a full-scale televised session, with questioning expected to give him a chance to discuss what his new administration will do about the growing inflation in the nation.

Getting down to details on the economic conference, which is to be held in late September or early October, Ford planned to tell his cabinet and aides today the roles he expects them and others to play in the economic think-tank sessions.

Before meeting with the cabinet, Ford called in economic counselor Kenneth Rush and his newly named conference executive director William Seidman, an accountant and Ford's longtime friend from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Aides said that the President also will have talks later in the week with academic, labor and business representatives and outside economists on preliminary phases of the summit conference.

Ford has said emphatically that he does not plan a return to mandatory wage and price controls. Instead, he is counting on a new Council on Wage and Price Stability to keep an eye on both management and labor and spotlight excessive increases in either prices or wages.

He signed a bill Saturday setting up the new council, which he had called on Congress to enact.

He got support for his anticontrols stand Sunday from three leading businessmen, but a bit of unfavorable comment about the new council from a former economist for former President Richard M. Nixon.

The three against re-imposition of controls were Arthur M. Wood, board chairman and chief executive officers of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; O. Pendleton Thomas, president and chief executive officer of the B. F. Goodrich Co., and Frank R. Milliken, president of Kennicott Copper Corp.

Appearing on ABC's Issues and Answers, the three agreed that the country is not heading into a serious recession. "It's a slow-down," Milliken said.

Wood predicted "inflation will taper off toward the end of the year."

C. Jackson Grayson, who headed the Federal Price Commission under Nixon, said he approves of Ford's calling of an economic summit or of the new President's plans to cut the federal budget.

He said the new monitoring agency might have some influence over wages and prices, but "I am not for the jawboning that is in this monitoring agency. I think that sort of threat to the American economy will actually in some cases increase prices rather than decreasing them."

Taking a day off from the office Sunday, the President went to church, played 18 holes of golf and relaxed at a party with members of the press who traveled with him as vice president.

Housing Market Pinch Worse

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Contractor John Mixon of Trimble, Mo., usually builds about 30 new houses a year. Right now, he doesn't have a single home under construction.

Mixon is caught in the tight money squeeze that has hit buyers, builders and bankers and caused some industry sources to forecast that Americans will have to change their way of life.

The Commerce Department reported recently that the number of new houses started in July was the smallest in more than four years. At the same time, the government raised the maximum allowable rate on federally insured home loans to a record 9.5 per cent.

An Associated Press survey showed that mortgage rates vary from area to area, depending on state laws. The amount of money needed for a down payment also varies, up to 40 per cent in some regions. Throughout the country, however, available houses are more expensive and loans are harder to get.

Mixon says there is very little construction going on right now. "There's not much point in even giving a prospect a price estimate on a house he wants to build unless he's got the financing pretty well lined up," he said.

Bankers say they don't have money to loan. They say deposits are down because investors can get more interest by putting their money in things like treasury notes than they can from savings accounts.

ROUNDTOWN

THE City of Circleville continued to reap the profits of motorists who are ignoring the four-way stop signs on Garden Parkway.

Ten violators were arrested during a short time Sunday and at $24 bond each, that can only mean $240.

The signs, erected to reduce speeds on Garden Parkway, stop traffic on the street at the intersection of Holiday Lane and Meadow Lane.

Ship Crash Closes Seaway

PORT ROBINSON, Ont. (AP) — Officials say the St. Lawrence Seaway may be blocked for two weeks while the wreckage of a bridge is cleared from the Welland Canal. Passage of more than 150 ships through the waterway may be delayed.

The American freighter Steelton rammed the bridge five miles north of Welland, Ont., early Sunday. The 120-foot-high structure and one of its two 300-ton counterweights plunged into the canal which connects Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The other weight smashed into a roadway, sending tremors through surrounding homes. The bridge master was injured and a member of the Steelton's crew suffered shock.

A seaway spokesman said it was the worst accident in the 43-year history of the canal. He said it might take two weeks to clear the wreckage from the 192-foot-wide channel.

The only other water route between the lakes is a branch of the Erie Barge Canal. But it can only handle small pleasure craft and barges towed or pushed by trucks.

Malcolm Campbell, director of the St. Lawrence Seaway's western region, said normally about 24 ships a day pass through the Welland Canal in the summer. Traffic has been halved in the past month by a strike of ship engineers and deck officers.

He said most of the recent users have been American or ocean-going ships and Canadian tankers.

The Steelton, which is owned by Bethlehem Steel, Corp., was en route from Buffalo to Contrecoeur, Que., to take on a load of ore. Damage to the freighter was estimated at about $1 million.

Woman Priest Gives Sermon

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — "The laws of the Episcopal church are inconsistent with the gospel of Jesus Christ," said Nancy C.H. Witte in her first sermon since her controversial ordination as a priest.

Mrs. Witte, 28, one of 11 women whose ordinations in a Philadelphia slum church on July 29 were invalidated by Episcopalian hierarchy, spoke from the pulpit at St. Peter's Episcopal Church here on Sunday.

"I was ordained as a priest in the church of God by a great bishop of the church," said Mrs. Witte.

The denomination's House of Bishops invalidated the ordinations at an Aug. 15 emergency session in Chicago.

Man Held In Death

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Willie Williams, 22, of Toledo, was stabbed to death late Sunday during an argument with a neighbor, police said.

Charged with aggravated murder in the death was Henry Townsend, 56, of Toledo, police said.

Rallies, Speeches Mark Equality Day Demonstrations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women zeroed in today on issues ranging from abortion to job discrimination as they celebrated "Women's Equality Day" and the 54th anniversary of female suffrage.

Massachusetts feminists sponsored a benefit to raise funds to counter efforts to make abortion illegal once again.

Chicago women called for a demonstration at the Sears Tower to protest what they claim is sex discrimination in hiring and promotion by Sears, Roebuck & Co.

In Philadelphia, feminists prepared a picket line at the local office of the U.S. Department of Labor to protest the agency's Manpower Administration. "The name itself is discriminatory, as are its programs," said Nada Goodman, one of the organizers of the demonstration.

President Ford, proclaiming Aug. 26 as "Women's Equality Day," noted that it was the anniversary of the 19th amendment giving women the right to vote and repeated his support for the proposed Equal Rights Amendment. Thirty-three of the 38 states necessary for ratification have approved the amendment.

Feminist groups sponsored a variety of celebrations, many at state capitols. The Aberdeen, S.D., chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) planned a ceremonies featuring Matilda Gage, granddaughter of Matilda Jocelyn Gage, a leader in the fight for women's suffrage. A suffrage pageant in Madison, S.D., commemorates an 1890 visit to the city by feminist leader Susan B. Anthony.

Idaho women said they'd bake a "celebration cake" for their demonstration at the capitol in Boise.

The Washington, D.C., chapter of NOW sponsored the third annual Women's Fair on Saturday and the Smithsonian Museum of History and Technology will honor women of the 19th and 20th centuries and their achievements with a special exhibition during September.

U.S. Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., told graduates at Bowling Green State University in Ohio on Saturday that women still face discrimination.

"This country was founded on the principle that all men are created equal and Americans have spent almost 200 years trying to achieve equal treatment under the law," she said. "Yet some of you may have been unfairly denied opportunities in education. Many of you will encounter discrimination in employment."

The Virginia chapter of NOW is sponsoring a candlelight vigil tonight just outside Arlington Cemetery. Sponsors said the purpose of the vigil was to urge support for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Israeli Practice Callup Successful

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel ended a practice call-up of thousands of military reserves two hours ahead of schedule today. Officials pronounced the exercise a success.

The 24-hour drill was programmed to end at noon. But officials reported things went so smoothly that some of the reservists were sent home after three hours, and a communique announced the operation was finished at 10 a.m.

The exercise began at noon Sunday with an announcement over the state radio and the broadcast of such

Man Escapes

Marion Prison

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Arthur Hall, an inmate at the medium-security state correctional institute here, escaped Sunday by cutting a window with a hacksaw blade, prison officials said.

The 28-year-old Alliance man was sentenced to the facility for parole violations in May 1973 in Stark and Portage counties.

He was paroled in August 1972 from the Ohio State Reformatory where he was serving a sentence for forgery.

Weather

Variable cloudiness and warm today, high, mid 80s. Partly cloudy and cooler tonight, low, mid 60s. Chance of showers and thundershowers Tuesday, high, mid to upper 80s. Probability of precipitation, 20 per cent today and tonight and 50 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Sunday were: high, 87; low, 66.

Murderous Cons Trapped?

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — "We think we've got them bottled in," a Texas official said early today as three escaped convicts played a deadly cat and mouse game with lawmen. Helicopters and dogs were to join the search.

Officials said the trio's bloody crime spree across the Texas plains had left two persons dead, five others wounded and two women raped.

Erath County Dist. Atty. Bob Glasgow made the "bottled in" declaration, calling the three "dangerous dudes." He said, "We're sure they came to Texas for revenge and vengeance."

By Sunday evening, more than 200 armed officers began to tighten a circle north of this Central Texas town in search of the three Colorado state prison escapees who traveled farm roads from the plains of West Texas 130 miles east to Stephenville.

"We are still assuming that they are in the area," Glasgow said. He said authorities had evacuated 12 or 15 farms in the area.

The three who escaped Thursday night were wanted in connection with the shooting deaths Saturday of rancher T. L. Baker and Mrs. Ray Ott. Authorities said both victims had testified against two of the convicts in previous burglary cases. Colorado prison officials said one of the convicts had sworn to kill a number of persons involved in court cases that sent him to prison.

The three were identified as Jerry Ulmer, 22, convicted of burglary; Dalton Williams, 29, serving a 40-to-60 year term for robbery, conspiracy and assault; and Richard Mangum, 22, serving three to five years for car theft.

Authorities said rancher Baker had testified at Williams' trial saying the man burglarized his home and stole several guns. Mrs. Ott had testified in a trial in which Ulmer was convicted of burglarizing the Ott home.

Baker was shot Saturday at his ranch. Mrs. Ott was gunned down later in the day at her home.

"They had to be looking for that house," Glasgow said of the Ott residence. "It is isolated and off the highway. It's not the kind of place you

Cypriot Leaders Together Under Auspices Of U.N.

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim brought the leaders of the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities together today for the first time since the collapse of the Geneva peace conference.

Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides, a Greek Cypriot, and Raouf Denktash, leader of the Turkish Cypriots, met briefly with Waldheim at the U.N. peace force camp on the dividing line between the Greek and Turkish sectors of Nicosia.

Waldheim, who later was to fly to Ankara for talks with Turkish leaders, said the meeting between Clerides and Denktash lasted 20 minutes and dealt only with "humanitarian problems."

He said both men had agreed to hold future meetings on a weekly basis and that he hoped that the face-to-face talks "will contribute to finding a political solution to the Cyprus problem."

Earlier Waldheim met separately with both Clerides and Denktash.

Waldheim said he and the Greek Cypriot president "discussed the possibilities for the future, ... humanitarian questions, the political future of the island and the question of resuming the negotiations for a settlement of the problem."

They also discussed the Soviet proposal for an international conference under U. N. auspices to seek a solution to the Cyprus problem, Waldheim reported.

"Consultations are under way in New York," the secretary-general said, "but the convening of such a conference will also depend very much on the attitude of the parties directly involved: Turkey, Greece and of course the government of Cyprus."

Greece and the Greek Cypriots have accepted the Soviet proposals with reservations, but Turkey and the Turkish Cypriots have not yet responded.

Waldheim arrived in Nicosia Sunday night after consultations with members of the Greek government in Athens. He was to go from Cyprus to Ankara to meet with Turkish leaders.

Two members of the Turkish cabinet visited Cyprus during the weekend and indicated that their government is making plans to rebuild and develop the economy of northern Cyprus for the benefit of the Turkish Cypriots.

With the 120,000 Turkish Cypriots outnumbered more than four to one by the 515,000 Greek Cypriots, the Turkish government has been urging mainland Turks to emigrate to Cyprus and to invest in the island.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted lower today, defying some analysts' hopes for a long-awaited rebound.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off about a point and losers took a moderate lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

As trading began, the U.S. Dept. of Commerce announced its third worst international trade deficit ever in July as imports exceeded exports by $728.4 million.

The trade gap was triggered by a 4.9 per cent rise in overall imports of oil while exports of oil declined 0.6 per cent.

Today's prices included Dennison Manufacturing, up 1/8 at 14; Ingersoll, unchanged at 68 1/4; Kimberly Clark, up 1/4 at 23 1/2, and Pacific Gas and Electric, off 3/8 to 19 1/8.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 17.38 points to finish at 686.80 its lowest close since July 8, 1970.

Air Pollution

Alerts Remain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Air pollution alerts remained in effect in the four-county area around Steubenville and in Dayton today, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency said.

The areas in Eastern Ohio affected were Belmont, Columbiana, Jefferson and Monroe counties.

An air stagnation advisory was issued by the National Weather Service for today in Southern Ohio.

Attorney General Candidate Visits Circleville Area

CAMPAIGN TRAIL—George C. Smith, Republican candidate for Ohio Attorney General, was in Circleville today. Pictured are, from the left: Eddie Pritchard, Ashville; Lem Weldon, Circleville attorney; Smith, and Kenneth Robbins, Circleville attorney.

George C. Smith, 39, Republican candidate for Ohio Attorney visited this area today, and spoke at a gathering held in his behalf.

Smith, the Prosecuting Attorney for Franklin County, stated here that he felt his 15 years of experience in public law enforcement will greatly assist people of this county when he is elected to the post of Ohio Attorney General.

Smith emphasized that the area of crime, namely the fight against drugs, burglaries, and auto thefts will be his principal point of attack in the Attorney General's office. This can be accomplished by direct personal assistance to local law enforcement officials and their agencies.

Smith also criticized the present Attorney General's office in its consistent tardiness in answering local public officials' questions concerning their legal problems.

Smith cited examples where county officials have been forced to wait one year, and sometimes, as long as two for legal opinions concerning critical local issues.

Smith noted that the reason for these belated opinions could not possibly be because of lack of manpower or finances.

Smith took note of the massive increase in the Attorney General's budget the past 3 1/2 years.

"From $4.5 million on January 11, 1971, it has increased nearly $10 million to $14.2 million."

Smith concluded by stating that this type of big-government spending means "continued inflation for all Ohioans."

Thieves Take Checks, Tools In Burglaries

Pickaway County Sheriff's Authorities investigated two weekend burglaries causing offenses to jump over 130 during August with one week left.

Herman R. Whaley, 622 Maplewood Ave., told Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown, that thieves took tools, and a bow and arrows from his pick-up truck parked in a lane along the west side of the Scioto River, between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday.

Whaley estimated the items to be worth $170.

Thieves took blank checks, money and miscellaneous items from the Thaddeus Baker residence, Route 1, Lockbourne, between 6-7 p.m. Saturday.

While the items were valued at $8.50, theft of blank checks constitutes grand theft.

Deputy James Dixon investigated the theft.

Open Letter

Dear Friends,

When death occurs in a family, prompt notice should be given to any religious, military, or fraternal organizations to which the deceased may have belonged. They often provide impressive commemorative rites to honor the good services of the deceased during his lifetime.

Such organizations often provide cash death benefits, similar to V.A. and Social Security, which may be lost if not applied for within a specified time.

HIT NO. 2 "WOMEN FOR SALE"

Rocky's Vacation Last In Privacy?

SEAL HARBOR, Maine (AP) — This week may be the last time for years that Nelson A. Rockefeller will be able to relax here in relative solitude with his wife and their two sons.

Rockefeller, the vice president-designate, will play tennis with the boys and sail with his wife, Happy. If the drought-parched Maine woods receive enough rain, he'll also roast lobster and corn over an open fire on the beach, without reporters present to record every comment and action.

This week is all that is left of Rockefeller's plan to take August off from working on his Council on Critical Choices for America and various other projects in which he has immersed himself since stepping down as New York's governor last December.

Everything has changed since Gerald R. Ford took over the presidency and selected the 66-year-old Rockefeller as his nominee for the vacated vice presidency.

Rockefeller accepted the summons to an office he has often scorned in 15 years of seeking the presidency.

The man who once said "I'm not stand-by equipment" now pronounces himself a loyal trouper under the Ford flag, wanting to serve the country.

With congressional confirmation hearings coming up next month, Rockefeller decided to remain here until after Labor Day while his lawyers and accountants prepare the voluminous financial and other material requested by the Senate Rules and House Judiciary Committees.

"I am totally relaxed," Rockefeller told reporters last Friday as he sat on a rough-hewn wood bench beneath towering pines. He talked about his new office, his life here and the might-beens and the yetto-comes.

"I never look backwards and worry about the past," he said when asked about his futile 1960, 1964 and 1968 presidential bids. "Only look to the future."

But when he was asked about 1980 — when he will be 72 and Ford will be ineligible to run again for the presidency — he called political speculation totally irrelevant.

Finally, when pressed, he recited the virtues of Israel's Golda Meir and West Germany's Konrad Adenauer, who governed into their seventies and eighties.

Motorcycle Attempt Falls 3 Feet Short

BRUCETON MILLS, W.Va. (AP) — An estimated 9,400 persons watched motorcycle daredevil Bob Gill fall three feet short Sunday in his attempt to break his own world's record in distance jumping.

Gill crashed the motorcycle into the opposite bank of Appalachia Lake, just short of the makeshift landing spot. He was thrown onto solid ground and the motorcycle was stuck in the bank.

For his efforts, he received "serious back injuries," hospital officials said. Gill was listed in guarded condition at West Virginia University Hospital at Morgantown.

Promotor Ralph Harbaugh was critical of some 500 persons whom he said had crashed the event and were watching from a country road. He said they cheered when Gill crashed, although those in the regular audience were silent.

"When he hit there, it was just like a football game—making a touchdown," Harbaugh said. "They cheered—I mean sadistic—it was beyond belief."

Harbaugh said the crowd had exceeded last week's 8,400 persons by about 1,000. Adults paid $6 and children were charged $2.

The event was postponed last week when Gill refused to make the jump because of slippery vaulting ramp conditions.

A portion of last week's crowd, angered at the postponement, firebombed an office and destroyed the vaulting ramp. Officials estimated damage at $20,000.

But Harbaugh said the crowd this week—except for the gate crashers—was well behaved. But he said he did not believe he had made any money on the event.

"The park's in the hole in the whole thing," said Harbaugh Sunday night. "That's playing it straight, but that's what happened."

Gill had set a world's record of 171 feet at Seattle, Wash., in 1973 when he jumped over 22 automobiles. Harbaugh said. "That's 55 feet farther than Evel Knievel ever jumped with a motorcycle," he said.

Speaking of his champion motorcycle jumper, Harbaugh noted, "he's a scholar and a gentleman, believe me. He's 28-years-old, but I'm telling you, he respects his elders and he's one hell of a fine champion."

Pickaway Volunteers Set Open House

The Pickaway Twp. Volunteer Fire Department is holding an open house 1 to 5 p.m. Labor Day at the fire house on the Circleville Tariton Road near Jefferson Addition.

The fire department hopes to raise funds for a van truck needed to carry equipment.

A rear quarter of beef will be given away.

Glenn Says Metzenbaum Not Helping

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former astronaut John Glenn, Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, said Sunday he hasn't seen "any indication" that U.S. Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum is interested in helping him in his November race.

Glenn, who beat Metzenbaum in the May primary, said Metzenbaum has said he will help the Democratic ticket, however.

Asked in an interview with WBNS radio if Metzenbaum was "actively or personally" supporting him, Glenn replied:

"I don't know. I haven't seen any indication that he desires to do so. I do not know what the situation is there."

Glenn said he believed inflation and a need for national health insurance would be the chief issues in his campaign.

Glenn faces Ralph Perk, the Republican mayor of Cleveland, in November.

The former astronaut said he hadn't planned on making Watergate a campaign issue. Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Democratic national campaign chairman, said here Friday that he had advised congressional candidates not to make it one.

Glenn said he would call for the need for credibility and restoration of

Ohio Target In Marijuana Effort

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ohio has been picked as a target state for legislative reform by a national organization advocating the repeal of criminal penalties for using marijuana.

Keith Stroup, founder and head of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML), said it will begin an intensive lobbying effort in Ohio Jan. 1 to get a law passed decriminalizing marijuana use.

"Ohio is now the state that seems to be sending the most people for long sentences," he said. "I don't know anywhere but Ohio that gives 20-year sentences."

The Ohio House passed by an 89-3 vote this year a bill to modify marijuana penalties but it died in the Senate Rules Committee. However, Stroup said the bill did not go far enough.

A first offense for possessing marijuana in Ohio is punishable by up to a year in jail while possession for sale can bring 10 to 20 years. Selling marijuana is punishable by a sentence of 20 to 40 years.

The Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction says 384 persons under age 30 began serving sentences last year for violating drug laws. A spokesman says that up to 200 were convicted solely of marijuana offenses.

Stroup called Ohio "the Texas of 1974."

Prior to July 1973, possession of any amount of marijuana in Texas was a felony punishable by two years to life in prison. After NORML began lobbying, Texas reduced possession of less than four ounces to a misdemeanor and lowered the maximum penalty for possession of greater amounts from life to 10 years imprisonment.

Stroup said the major concern in Ohio is the handling of marijuana sellers. He said the law does not distinguish between the commercial trafficker, who sells large amounts for profit, and the casual seller who sells to friends without a profit.

Stroup said that as a step towards repeal of marijuana laws, he would like to see Ohio adopt a statute like the one in Oregon. He said that being busted for marijuana in Oregon is like receiving a parking ticket.

Fines range from $25 to $100 and the penalty does not grow more severe with repeated offenses.

However, Stroup added that considering the conservatism of many Ohio politicians, he is not optimistic about getting such a law passed in Ohio soon.

State Rep. George E. Mastics, R-3, Fairview Park, said the odds were four-to-one against passage of a law like Oregon's.

He recalled stiff opposition to his bill four years ago to make possession of marijuana a misdemeanor.

State Fair Runs Ahead Of Last Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Fair continued to run about 7,000 ahead of last year's attendance overall Sunday, but the day itself didn't set a record.

Fair officials said 248,068 attended the fair Sunday. The alltime one-day record, 260,843, was set Sunday a year ago.

A year ago at this time, the fair had attracted 825,994. The overall 1974 total including Sunday is 833,756, fair officials said.

A horse-pulling contest was one of the contest highlights Sunday, while comedian Red Skelton and the Mike Curb Congregation were the grandstand attractions.

A hitch of four horses, entered by Jim Henshaw's Copter Service, Winchester, Ind., won the lightweight horse-pulling contest. They pulled 7,000 pounds 25 feet, seven inches.

Dangerous Complaints

Americans are great complainers. It is one of the signs that with all the stresses and creaks, the system of freedom which is peculiarly ours continues to live and breathe. The chronic complainer, of course, can be a nuisance.

But the freedom to complain is one of the unwritten bill of rights.

This isn't the way it is in the majority of countries. From those which are outright dictatorships to others which are governed by varying degrees of censorship and oppression, the right to complain publicly frequently does not exist.

Imagine an individual jailed without due process for complaining about an exorbitant volume of pollutants flowing into the air from the factory in which she is employed. That was the case recently in the Soviet Union.

Svetlana I. Shramko wrote a letter to the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party complaining noxious fumes emitted by the plant where she was a worker had caused illness as far as six miles away. She made the mistake, in the eyes of the Kremlin, of sending a copy of the letter to the United Nations.

For that Miss Shramko was seized at her apartment and incarcerated involuntarily in one of the Soviet Union's infamous mental institutes. Upon her release the Russian woman contacted western newsmen, an offense for which she will surely be treated harshly.

The verdict at the mental clinic, Miss Shramko reported, was that she was not mentally ill but had "paranoid" tendencies. In the Soviet Union there are no complainers, just paranoids.

Ford Wades Right In

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Nobody in the land — Democrat, Republican, Independent, Wallacite or member of the Vegetarian Party — can accuse President Gerald R. Ford of lacking that rare old quality named guts.

—He made his pitch for compassion and leniency for 50,000 war resisters right into the teeth of the most concentrated core of anti-amnesty proponents, the annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

—He chose Nelson Rockefeller as the Vice President he wants at his side in the remaining years of this term, to the dismay of some and indignation of others in the GOP.

A President can choose his audiences as easily as he can choose the necktie he wants to wear to the office. No other arm of government can veto that Presidential whim or decision. Had Ford wished to state that it's high time the nation took another look at the position, imprisonment and self-imposed exile of the men who ducked the war in Vietnam, he could easily have arranged to make known his feelings at a convention of, say, the Americans who have mixed emotions about those boys who made the hard decision to sit out a war which a vast majority of the public now agrees was a senseless waste of blood, treasure and prestige.

Instead, Ford took his case to as tough a jury as he will ever face. The VFW members and their families are justifiably proud of the military records of their men, and mourn those who were shattered or went unquestioning to their graves in Indochina and wars gone by. Those who came to the big hall in Chicago to hear the new President's first formal speech — and felt honored that he had chosen the VFW as his forum — naturally assumed that he would make the routine Presidential vet's speech: "I'm witcha. I'm one of you. We went through hell together." Ford was well into what sounded to the pleased delegates like more of the same when suddenly the applause faltered, chins dropped, and a look of incomprehension came into an acre or two of eyeballs.

He, the President, who had gone through real hell on a carrier off the Philippines in World War II, was saying something that his predecessor would not have dreamed of saying to a VFW (or American Legion) convention! But there it was, bold and blunt as Ford himself: "I'm throwing the weight of my Presidency into the scales of justice. I foresee their (the war resisters) earned re-entry into a new atmosphere of hope, hard work and mutual trust."

(The scene recalled Charles de

Gaulle's address to 300,000 in the forum of Algiers, just after he had been returned to power. The belief of the vast majority in his audience was that he agreed with them that Algeria must remain a French colony. De Gaulle, in his bemedaled general's suit, which had had to be let out by his tailors, told his cheering audience that Algeria had as much right to be independent as Frenchmen at home, a bombshell that still brings goosebumps to a reporter who happened to be there that day. The 300,000 were struck dumb for a moment, then angrily started chanting, "Soustelle... Soustelle" (for the leader of the "Algerie Francais" movement).

Now Rocky. Ford was probably in attendance at the Cow Palace in Daly, Calif., in 1964, when the Republicans chose Sen. Barry Goldwater to lead their run against the heavily entrenched incumbent, President Lyndon Johnson. Assuming his presence, Ford must have witnessed that most savage demonstration against Rockefeller when the then governor of New York and sometime candidate for his party's nomination made an address the convention committee had invited him to deliver.

The crude boos, slanderous defamation and brandishing gestures that greeted Rockefeller's measured appeal for a more liberal patina for the GOP were enough to make a John Wayne look around for the nearest exit at the Alamo. But Rocky stood his ground against a tidal wave of abuse, and bravely completed his talk.

The doubts of GOP conservatives about him are still apparent in his party. They took a malicious form last week when a preposterous charge was given currency that he resorted to Watergate-type practices and Mafia muscle to try to sabotage the 1972 Democratic convention.

Against that rotten charge — which many automatically believed simply because it was rotten — Ford has reached his hand out to Rockefeller to join him in an historic effort to renew the faith of peoples everywhere on earth in the integrity of the United States.

Miraculous days have come upon us in the nick of time. We have been delivered, delivered into the hands of two gutsy, honest guys. May they stay that way!

Brazilian Indians Battling Against Civilizing Process

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — In a scenario reminiscent of the American West, bands of primitive Amazon Indians are fighting to keep their jungles free of modern exploitation.

The Brazilian government has long been eager to push development of the Amazon Basin but has found the going slow and troublesome, partially because of native resistance.

President Ernesto Geisel issued an order on Friday restricting access to an area occupied by the Waimiri and Atoari tribes in northern Amazonas state, where a road is being cut through the jungle between Manaus and Caracari.

The government in recent years has laced the Amazon Basin with a number of roadbuilding projects, which the government hopes will encourage business, industry and agriculture to develop the region.

In recommending Geisel's order, Interior Minister Rangel Reis told the president the two tribes "offer serious resistance to pacification." He warned of an "ever-present danger of new clashes" between the Indians and road-building crews and travelers.

Despite the deaths of three Indian agents last January, Reis said agents will continue to try to establish friendly relations with the Waimiri and Atoari.

The Waimiri and Atoari aren't the only Indians giving the government's modern-day frontiersmen trouble.

An Indian agent was killed and another seriously wounded a week ago near the border with Peru in an attack by Marubo Indians as they tried to make friendly contact with the tribe. The attack was near the route of another road being built through the jungle.

In the state of Goias, the government is continuing an effort toward friendly contacts with the Ava-Canoeira Indians, and after two years it issued an announcement this week saying: "Pacification of the Ava-Canoeiros is near."

Air Crew Officially Said Dead

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — The Air Force officially declared dead Sunday night the seven crewmen aboard a C141 transport plane which crashed into a mountain peak near La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 18.

A spokesman for the 437th Military Airlift Wing said the decision was based on "all available facts," including aerial photographs of the crash site. He said ground crews have not been able to reach the scene to recover the bodies.

"The aircraft wreckage at 19,000 feet on Mt. Potosi has been positively identified from photographs taken Aug. 24 as being a U. S. Air Force C141," the announcement said.

"Recent photographic evidence indicates the aircraft flew directly into the side of the mountain. The impact was against the face of a glacier. A majority of the wreckage was driven into the ice and has subsequently been covered by ice dislodged by the impact."

The announcement added: "Close visual scrutiny and photographs from helicopters of the site on Aug. 24 revealed no indication of survivors. In addition, exposure of one week to frigid temperatures, lack of shelter and rarity of the atmosphere, removes all hope of life."

Food prices have risen 30 per cent in the last 10 years.

Today In History

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Failure to be properly immunized against disease and failure to maintain immunization are rapidly becoming threats to the health of the American people.

Federal, state and local health agencies are becoming increasingly concerned about this problem.

Children between the ages of one and four are vaccinated against diphtheria, whooping cough, smallpox, mumps, tetanus, polio, measles and other communicable diseases. These diseases are particularly dangerous to those who are inadequately protected.

When reports are issued about the decline of serious infectious diseases a sense of complacency becomes apparent. This false sense of security is fraught with danger.

The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has issued a warning that "all levels of immunization are substantially lower than what public health workers would consider ideal. Furthermore, the trend seems to continue downward."

Health of the community depends on adequate immunization. When there is less than 85 per cent immunization in any area the risk of an epidemic becomes greater.

Proper immunization, therefore, is an individual, a family, and a community project. Each person owes it to himself and to the people around him to be properly vaccinated against disease to prevent its spread.

There are many who have forgotten the panic that raged through a community when the first case of poliomyelitis was reported in the spring. The physical and emotional devastation that followed an epidemic of polio should be recalled. Only in this way can those who are careless about immunization be impressed with the need for proper vaccination.

The scientific accomplishments that have virtually wiped out many infectious diseases came at the end of many hard years of study and research.

Now that vaccination is possible for so many diseases no one should be deprived of his birthright to health and freedom from the dangers of infectious diseases.

It comes to many as a shocking surprise that measles and mumps, diseases so casually thought of, can be responsible for blindness, deafness and devastating neurological diseases in the unvaccinated child.

If a child pays the penalty for neglect of vaccination, it is a shameful reflection on the people responsible for such negligence.

Judge Or Doctor?

By JIM BISHOP

The dust is beginning to settle. We, the people, are beset by two groups of vindictives: (1) those who say "Drop it. Forget it. He has suffered the ultimate degradation."; (2) others who say, "He's just plain old Richard Nixon now. Go get him. Indict him. Sue him. Throw him in jail."

A long way back I tossed a thought into a column—timidly, I admit—that there was a possibility that, as President, Richard Nixon was not a healthy man. I did not and do not think that he is psychotic, but I felt that his judgment, so important to the welfare of the U.S., was impaired.

As the walls of his Presidency fell, shattering in the final days, the White House press corps stressed that Nixon was "serene." Senators Scott and Goldwater, after a final conference, depicted Nixon as almost jaunty, with his feet up on the desk. Others said he was "remote—not in touch with reality."

If Nixon is to face future danger, either as an "indicted co-conspirator" in Watergate, or as a reluctant government witness at the Ehrlichman and Haldeman trails, he has but two choices: to plead the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination, or to admit to the truth of what he has said on tapes, which could be an admission of guilt.

He cannot seek help from those in Congress who now commiserate with his plight, men who wept with him as they sharpened the axe to behead the President. Congress cannot intervene with the Department of Justice or the pending work of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski. They can pass a "Sense of the Congress" resolution that he be left in peace. That's all.

Nor can President Ford pardon a man for crimes he has not confessed to. There is a grim question in my mind whether Nixon is truly aware that the acts perpetrated in the White House were criminal in nature. He reminds me of a little boy, having set fire to a closet while his mother is out shopping, slams the closet door, sure that the fire will go away.

From January 20th, 1969, until now, he has been secretive, humorless, isolated, busy plotting against those he felt were plotting against him. Eric Sevareid said he hoped that someone would someday explain the two Nixons to him—the urbane, precise man on television versus the screaming, blaspheming, ashtay-tosser behind the scenes.

Certainly, I cannot do it. Where in the world can anyone find a man engaged in obstruction of justice who, to make certain he will be exposed, bugs himself and forgets to burn the tapes? Who pledges full cooperation with congressional committees when, to do so, it amounts to self-incrimination?

Who in his right mind selects a man of the integrity of Archibald Cox and then fires him and sends an attorney general packing? Who indeed?

What man, pledging to fight inflation, would admit on tape that he doesn't want to hear about the devaluations of the British pound and Italian lira because they are "complex. I don't understand it."

Years before my name appeared on the White House "Enemies List," Mr. Nixon, as Vice President, regarded me as his friend. He confided in me, and I have not violated his confidence. However, even in those days, he was frank to admit that, "It's Pat and me against the world. Nobody ever gave us anything. In the game plan, you take your enemies out or they'll take you out."

In the end, it was General Alexander Haig and James St. Clair who led him gently, blubbery with tears, toward the gallows. He told us the reason he resigned was because he had lost his "power base," the votes in Congress. Subliminally, it was their fault. Not his.

It was Haig who had that helicopter ready on the south lawn; it was Haig who drew up the summary timetable so that there was no time to change the Presidential mind. He was being pushed firmly by one who still admires Nixon.

My opinion has no legal standing, but I say enough. One man wrote that when Nixon reached San Clemente, he shut the phone service off. He was like a kid who climbed into a little tree house and pulled the ladder up behind him.

I am almost obsessed by this feeling that, inside Nixon, he still feels that he did nothing wrong in abusing the F.B.I., the C.I.A. and the I.R.S. They are Presidential weapons to be used against the "enemy." If his judgment in distinguishing between right and wrong is impaired, I suggest that a doctor is more pertinent at this stage than a judge...

Dear Abby:

Boys In The Girls' Dorm

DEAR ABBY: Indeed the letter from the girls in the coed dorm who protested the presence of men in their bathing and toilet facilities was no put on.

I am a psychotherapist who has counseled college students since 1942, and the bizarre situation they describe is common.

Coed living is creating severe emotional problems for college men and women. Impotence in college men is now a common symptom, the result of a culture that pushes sexual performance. Some girls panic because of sexual pressure; others become overly aggressive.

It is totally unfair to pay for a double room in a girls' dorm and then end up sharing it with a girl and her boyfriend. The only way to escape being an observer to the roommate's sexual activities is to find some other place to sleep.

I have had this same picture from the male and female students from every coeducational residential college or university that has been represented in my patient load.

The schools are doing harm and injustice not only to the minority, but also to the students whose vote is regarded as an order by the administration. This is one reason psychiatric treatment of college students has increased in volume. The universities need to hear a voice of sanity. Abby, please take a serious look at this widespread problem.

CONCERNED COUNSELOR
DEAR CONCERNED: I am looking, but it's sometimes hard to believe what I see. For example, this letter from a Washington (DC) STAR-NEWS reader:

DEAR ABBY:
I am surprised by the amazing stupidity you exhibit in some of your answers. The most recent deals with those two modest girls in Scripps Woman's college, who are offended by the sight of men sharing their sleeping and bathing facilities.

As I understand it, the male 24-hour visitation policy was established three years ago by a majority vote, and is upheld by the college authorities. Any girl who wishes to make other living arrangements can do so, therefore the ladies who are offended have no legitimate complaint.

Your comments were an even greater surprise when you suggest that 98 per cent of the dorm find another place to live! Someone in your profession should be able to offer more practical advice rather than convert the entire dorm into a nunnery of two.

I would like to commend that college for having the integrity and maturity to provide its students with their needs, whatever they may be.

Will you publish my letter? Or don't you believe in free speech?

THE GREAT DEFENDER
DEAR DEFENDER: It is my view that if college students want to play house, it's not the business of the college to provide them with bedrooms for that purpose.

Let them make their own arrangements-off campus.

I believe that in a WOMEN's residential college, girls who wish to sleep and shower with men should suffer the inconvenience of applying for a living situation compatible with THEIR lifestyle, even if they are in the majority.

Cattle Producers Seeking Stability

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. farm policy and the hopes of most producers in American agriculture have been directed for almost two years to one principal goal: stability.

For the cattle industry, that has been especially true and especially important.

Meat represents a third or more of the average food budget and beef is a bellwether industry that influences the entire food chain dramatically.

Late this week, an analysis in the bimonthly situation report on U.S. livestock and meat indicates that stability may creep in — the weather willing — by the November 1976 elections. Maybe.

"During the last 18 months, the cattle industry has been buffeted by consumer boycotts, a ban on (the chemical fattener) DES, various phases and stages of price controls, skyrocketing feed-grain and protein prices, double-digit inflation and marginal growth in the general economy," the report from the Economic Research Service reads.

"Prospects for the next year or two are potentially even more disruptive," it adds, directly contrary to the official optimism that the end of price controls is allowing the farm market to adjust from 1973 distortions and stabilize.

First of all, the nation's inventory of cattle on the hoof has been building up rapidly for several years as a part of the recovery from the last meat depression 15 years ago.

At the same time, slaughter levels have been generally the same for a decade and now simply must rise to accommodate all that walking supply.

With normal weather, slaughter could go up 10 to 12 per cent next year, the analysis said. If it doesn't get wetter in the cattle states, the marketing is going to be disrupted with abnormal movements to slaughter or to greener pastures in other states.

The report mentions the current adjustments in the industry as the booming fed-cattle facet of the 1960s goes into deceleration and low-grade, grass-fed supplies expand.

The monkeywrench there is that cattle can't be fed grass if pastures are dry and can't be put on feed if the rancher can't afford to buy the grain, supplies of which are tight and prices consequently higher.

Pork, chicken and milk production are going to be pulled down also by small soybean and corn crops through 1976, the report states.

The prices moreover could break up the Corn Belt's pattern of joint grain-livestock operations and bring a "tilt" to intensified grain production until the price settles.

Bellamy-Lutz Wedding Vows Read In Nazarene Church

MRS. ROGER D. LUTZ

The Circleville Nazarene Church was the setting Aug. 10th, for the 7:30 p.m. candlelight ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Dorinda Jean Bellamy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raney Bellamy of 332 Juhl Drive, Circleville, and Mr. Roger D. Lutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lutz of East Union St., Circleville.

The Rev. William G. Hill of the Nazarene Church and Dr. David Cubie of Mount Vernon performed the double ring ceremony. Two seven-branch candelabra and pedestal baskets of white carnations, baby's breath, gladioli and variegated green and white California ivy and fern enhanced the altar. The pews were decorated with greenery and satin bows and lighted tapers were placed in the windows.

A half-hour of pre-nuptial music was presented by the organist, Mrs. William G. Hill and vocalist, Mr. Sam Steinpert.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her father and mother. She selected for her wedding day a gown of imported white silk organza, styled in an A-line silhouette. The gown featured a fitted empire bodice of chantilly lace enhanced with pearls, a cameo neckline, long sleeves of chantilly lace, and lace ruffles at the wrist.

The gown was adorned with scattered lace appliques, pearls and a chapel length train, the bottom of which fell in deep ruffles of lace. She wore a dome headpiece of chantilly lace and pearls holding tiers of imported silk illusion.

The bride carried a cascade of white chrysanthemums and pompons backed with green and white California ivy leaves and baby's breath tied with white satin ribbons.

Miss Deborah Bellamy, twin sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jonathan Niles, Circleville, sister of the groom, Miss Irene Roark of Lexington, Ky., college roommate of the bride, and Miss Janice Hughes of Frankfort, Ohio, cousin of the bride.

They wore identical gowns of nylon sheer with designed flocked print styled in an A-line silhouette. The halter gown featured an empire bodice, deep flounced hemline and was topped with a flare sleeved bolero jacket with satin ribbon at the waist. The maid of honor's gown was blue and the attendants wore pastels of pink, green and yellow. Each carried a white parasol wicker basket filled with daisies, cornflowers and white carnations, with matching ribbon showers and baby's breath. They wore garden hats decorated the same as the parasol baskets with flowers matching the gowns.

Miss Nicole Bellamy of Circleville, niece of the bride, and Miss Kathy Lutz of Circleville, niece of the groom, were the flower girls.

They wore long lavender dresses of nylon sheer with designed flocked print. The sleeveless dresses accented with lace trim featured a deep flounced hemline and satin ribbon at the waist. They wore cresent headbands of matching flowers and each carried a white basket decorated with streamers and bows, and filled with rose petals.

Mr. Robert Lutz of Circleville, twin brother of the groom, served as best man. Master Shane Diltz served as ringbearer.

Mr. Glenn Lutz, brother of the groom, Mr. Timothy Bellamy, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gary Garrett were groomsmen, all of circleville.

Mr. Daniel Parks of Washington C. H., cousin of the bride, Mr. Jonathan Niles, brother-in-law of the groom, Mr. Jeff Smallwood, cousin of the groom, served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bellamy chose a royal blue gown of summer knit featuring a pleated skirt and matching jacket of light blue knit with floral designed royal blue and light blue print, an open neckline with long sleeves and matching accessories.

The bride groom's mother wore a light blue gown of double knit with high neckline and long sheer bishop sleeves and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of orchids with yellow throats.

Mrs. Robert Lutz of Circleville presided at the guest book. Hostesses for the reception held in the Fellowship Hall of the church were Mrs. Jake Smallwood, aunt of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Parks, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Glenn Lutz, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, all of Circleville; Miss Martha Lambert, Miss Kathy Parks, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Timothy Bellamy, sister-in-law of the bride.

When the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Florida, the bride was attired in a three-piece bittersweet pant suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The couple will be residing at 257

Picnic Fare

Deviled eggs, carrot curls, ham sandwiches, pickles, picnic loaf, iced tea.

Picnic Loaf

Carry it to an outing in its foil pan.
1½ cups flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 and 1-3rd cups sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 cup chopped (medium-fine) pecans or walnuts
Juice of 1 lemon

Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt, Cream butter and 1 cup of the sugar; beat in eggs, one at a time, then the milk and lemon rind. Add flour mixture; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened; fold in nuts. Turn into a greased foil loaf pan (about 8 by 4 by 2½ inches). Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 55 to 60 minutes. Stir together the remaining 1-3rd cup sugar and the lemon juice; as soon as loaf comes out of the oven pour the lemon mixture over the top. Cool in pan. Loosen edges. Carry the loaf to a picnic in its foil pan with a sharp knife for slicing.

Adena, Sherman House Included In Tour Of Southcentral Ohio

Adena is a Hebrew word meaning "given to places remarkable for the delightfulness of their situations." Today, Ohio travelers can find a place of countless delights at Thomas Worthington's Adena on Allen Ave. in Chillicothe.

Worthington, Ohio's sixth governor, began construction on the main house in 1806 and it was, by any standard of today or yesterday, a mansion. The large windows in every room overlook lush pasture lands, stately trees, a formal garden and a striking view of Mount Logan. It's said that this vantage point inspired Worthington and several friends to create the Great Seal of Ohio, which bears the twin peaks of Mount Logan.

The floors of the mansion are of solid ash and oak and blend into a rich woodwork hewn from native walnut. Many of the elegant furnishings in the home were carried to Ohio from the family home in Virginia, but still other pieces were fashioned by craftsmen at the estate.

To the south of the house are the beautiful formal gardens where hundreds of flowers blanket the ground in a rainbow of color and fill the air with their fragrances.

Many of the estate's outbuildings were located away from the main home, but the washhouse was joined to the mansion by an open porch, covering the water pump. Visitors at Adena today can see the stout benches, large kettles, lye and soft soap that were used by servants in washing the family's clothing. Hams and bacon still hang from the beams in the smokehouse nearby, just as they did when pork was a staple of the Worthington's diet.

The springhouse was reconstructed only after recovering the foundation from 17 feet of dirt that had covered it after decades of soil erosion. Visitors can now see where the fresh milk was cooled and where butter and cheese making took place.

The sturdy barn at Adena is built on two levels. The upper floor was used to thresh grain and stack hay and sheaves of wheat, while the lower level housed the stables.

The tenant house, now a gift and information area, shows how comfortably even the Worthington's servants lived at the estate. Visitors are still greeted by a fire in the open hearth, a welcome addition to the home, even on a warm day.

The authentically costumed guides at Adena bring the restoration to life. They're always ready to answer questions on the history of the estate or demonstrate the crafts that were performed there more than a century ago.

A drive to Lancaster, northeast of Adena, will bring you to the home of two other famous Ohioans: William Tecumseh Sherman, the Civil War General who led "Sherman's March to the Sea," and his brother John, who became a Senator, Secretary of State and author of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

This simple frame home, at 137 Main St., was completely restored and furnished in 1968. Inside, interesting exhibits allow visitors a glimpse of the Shermans as men who led their nation and as small boys in a central Ohio town.

Then, just 6 miles southwest of Lancaster on County Road 273, visitors can get lost in the natural wilderness of Wahkeena, 150 acres of wooded land alive with native orchids, wild ferns and countless varieties of wildlife. To preserve this fragile area, advance permission must be obtained for group visits from the National History Department of the Ohio Historical Society in Columbus.

Adena is open from April through October from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

and closed on Mondays. Sherman House is open from June through October from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, except Monday. Ohio Historical Society members and organized school groups are admitted free at all state memorials. Other visitors are charged a small fee.

A free booklet on "Ohio's Yesterday Getaways" is available by writing the Public Information Office, the Ohio Historical Center, Columbus, Ohio 43211.

MUSEUM—The Neil Armstrong Air and Space Museum is one of the most unusual buildings in the state.

OHIO'S MONTICELLO—The beautiful home and grounds of Adena have earned it the reputation of the Monticello of Ohio.

Raw Steel Output Declines Sharply

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Raw steel production during the week ending Aug. 17 dropped to 2,676,000 net tons, the lowest mark since the last week of 1972, Industry Week magazine said today.

However, it reported some recovery was made last week with an estimated output of 2,725,000 tons.

When U.S. mills produced a record 150.8 million net tons of raw steel last year, the lowest weekly output was the 2,688,000 tons during the first week of January, the magazine said.

"Also, last year saw the establishment of record weekly high marks which have not been equaled this year," it added.

U.S. mills also shipped a record 111.4 million net tons of raw steel last year. "Mills had expected to produce about 148 million tons of raw steel this year and to ship 110 million to 111 million tons of finished product," Industry Week continued. "But the plan has been thwarted by outages for repair of equipment that has been run hard for 18 months, summer vacations of steelworkers, hot weather and shortages of electricity and raw materials."

It added that steelmakers say demand for steel remains strong and is running far ahead of production capacity.

"There's no indication of market weakness," Industry Week said. "Although most steel companies haven't opened their order books for the full fourth quarter, they are in effect sold out for the rest of this year."

The fact that automakers have returned to the market more strongly than expected has compounded the tight steel supply situation, it added.

"Shipments to this market were off 25.2 per cent in the first half of this year from a year ago," Industry Week said. "But it now appears that second half shipments to it will be down only 10 per cent compared with last year's second half, if there's no major interruption of steel production."

Electric Company Reorganizes

O. EDMOND LECKRONE

NEIL MORRIS

The board of trustees of South Central Power Company, in the first reorganization meeting after general elections at the 38th annual meeting of the locally-owned company, have elected O. Edmond Leckrone of Mt. Perry, as treasurer.

Leckrone, who had been assistant treasurer, replaces Charles G. Blackburn of New Vienna, retired. Elected to replace Leckrone as assistant treasurer was Neil Morris of Kingston.

The board re-elected to office all other incumbents: John W. Eakin, Canal Winchester, president; Charles Wyckoff, Piketon, vice president; Harold Kline, Greenfield, secretary; and Glenn Hastings, Hillsboro, assistant secretary.

Leckrone was elected to the South Central Board in 1956, and although a veteran of 18 years service, is the youngest man on the Board. He also serves on the Sales and Public Relations committee and on the Operations Committee.

Morris is also a member of the Operations Committee, and of the personnel and employment committee.

Local Artists Have Work Hung At Fair

Bill Chandler, art instructor for Logan Elm High School, and three of his students are exhibiting art work at the Ohio State Fair.

Chandler has two pieces featured in the professional division. Both were previously exhibited in the Circleville Art League's Spring Show.

Students having work displayed in the amateur division are Lonnie Maxson, Kandy Temple and Danny Stevens.

Maxson was one of the 20 amateurs to receive an award at this year's state fair. He has also been exhibited in the Governor's Exhibit and School Arts Magazine.

Stevens was one of seven Logan Elm art students to have work selected for this year's School Arts Showcase Exhibit.

Both professional and amateur art divisions at the Ohio State Fair are juried shows and only selected pieces are hung for exhibit.

Those wanting to see both exhibits may do so by visiting the Cox Fine Arts Building at the State Fair.

OSHA Seminar Set At OU-L

A four day, Voluntary Compliance Seminar on the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) is being offered by the Office of Continuing Education, Ohio University, Lancaster Campus Sept. 10, 17, 24, and Oct. 1 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This comprehensive course will deal with specific hazards, such as fire exits, fire extinguishing systems, electrical, materials handling and storage, compressed gas, machine guarding, etc. Standards in relation to these hazards will be discussed.

The main objective of the seminar will be to assist participants in planning a program of compliance with the Safety and Health Law on a voluntary basis and thus hopefully to reduce the number of citations and penalties if and when their places of business are inspected by an OSHA Compliance Officer.

Instructors, conducting the seminar will be R. L. Compton, OSHA Training Administrator and Lead Instructor for the Columbus Safety Council, formerly of Western Electric Co., and Capital University, R. G. Claar, OSHA Instructor for the Council, formerly of Columbia Gas Distribution Companies; and R. E. Putney, Loss Control Consultant of Nationwide Insurance Company.

All three have had experience in safety and in seminar leadership. Registration will be restricted to 50 students, accepted on a first come basis. To register call 654-6711 Ext. 27.

Vincent Price Appears With Kenley Players

Vincent Price, the screen's premier portrayer of horrific characters, turns crafty in the Kenley Players' production of the Lionel Bart musical, "Oliver", opening a week's stay at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Columbus Veterans Memorial.

Price is starred as Fagin in the musical version of the Charles Dickens classic, "Oliver Twist". He has appeared in more than 100 films, from "Laura" to "The Pit and the Pendulum" and has been seen in more than 500 television shows and at least 1000 radio broadcasts. He is also an authority on art and cookery.

Gaylea Byrne has the role of Nancy and she is featured in the haunting number, "As Long As He Needs Me". Handsome David Holliday is cast as Bill Sykes. Russ Thacker, who scored recently in the Kenley production, "Take Me Along", is seen as the Artful Dodger.

Michael Wantuck, talented 10-year-old from Florida, is making his professional debut as Oliver in the Kenley production. He appeared in a regional Florida college production of "Oliver" and played Mickey Mouse in "The Wonderful Music of Disney". He is soloist and first soprano with the Miami Boys' Choir.

The big singing and dancing cast includes Jean Ann Ryan, Earl Rice, Carol Trigg, Charles Cagle, John

Randy Wolfe Wins Grange Talent Contest

Randy Wolfe, a member of the Saltcreek Valley Grange, received a first place plaque in the Ohio State Grange Talent Contest held at the Ohio State Fair on Friday. He was declared winner in the piano solo competition with the performance of "Polichinelle" by Rachmaninoff.

Presenting the award was Mrs. Bernice Arter, lecturer of the Ohio State Grange, who announced that Randy would be performing at the state convention in October.

Randy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Wolfe of Circleville and is a piano student of Patricia Schleich.

What is clean energy really worth?

Clean energy—energy that doesn't blacken skies or pollute rivers—is obviously worth quite a bit. And here's the paradox. The cleanest-burning fuel—and thus the most valuable fuel—is drastically under priced.

That fuel is natural gas.

But, because natural gas is so clean, and so inexpensive, the demand has far outgrown conventional supplies.

We need new sources of clean energy. And we need them now.

Columbia Gas is investing hundreds of millions of dollars in developing dramatic new sources, such as gas from the Arctic, from overseas, from under the sea, from petroleum liquids ... even from plentiful coal.

Gas from these new sources costs more to find and deliver, and eventually we'll probably all notice it in our gas bills.

But natural gas will continue to be your best energy buy.

What is clean energy really worth?

Try to imagine your world without it.

Imagine your children without it.

Columbia Gas is working to help solve the energy crisis. It's expensive to duplicate nature's work, but we're doing it. A reforming plant, built at a cost of over 44 million dollars, turns petroleum liquids into pipeline quality gas and is designed to deliver eighty-eight billion cubic feet of gas each year. It's only a trickle of the new energy America needs. Still, it's shedding a bright hope on tomorrow.

COLUMBIA GAS is doing something about the energy crisis.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

This week Governor Gilligan created by executive order a 25-member Task Force for Implementation of the Equal Rights Amendment. The 13-woman, 12-man group will work with the attorney general's office to study existing state laws and suggest changes to bring them in line with the pending Equal Rights Amendment (ERA).

The Task Force will operate for nine months with an organizational meeting set for September 13 at the Governor's Mansion. Public hearings are expected to begin in October.

Mrs. Mary Miller of Columbus, president of the Ohio Commission on the Status of Women, was appointed chairperson of the Task Force. She estimated that around 140 provisions of Ohio law may need to be changed if the Equal Rights Amendment is ratified.

The ERA prohibits discrimination based on sex. Presently, 33 states including Ohio have ratified the constitutional amendment. An additional five are needed before it becomes law.

Duties of the Task Force include:

- 1) reviewing all state laws and regulations of departments and agencies;
- 2) drafting new legislation to conform Ohio law to the Equal Rights Amendments;
- 3) reviewing the need for a permanent commission on the Status of Women.

Public hearings on proposed rules for campaign expense reporting began this week in the new State Office Tower in Columbus.

The new campaign financing law enacted earlier this year by the General Assembly requires the Secretary of State to adopt rules for carrying out provisions of the law.

One feature of the new law is to limit the amount that can be spent for each office beginning with the current November general election campaign.

Based on limits in the new law, candidates for Governor and the U.S. Senate can spend $1,065,201 (10 cents times the population of the state); other statewide candidates, $159,780 (1 1/2 cents times the population of the state); Congressmen, $83,363 (18 cents times the population of their districts); state senators, $38,734 (12 cents times the population of their districts); and state representatives, $16,139 (15 cents times the population of their districts).

Candidates will be required to file reports on contributions and expenditures 12 days before the election and 45 days after the election.

The new law requires candidates to identify anyone contributing more than $25.00. Office holders who receive contributions from employees must separately identify these contributions and file a statement that these were made voluntarily.

Geothermal Energy Boom Seen

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — Klamath Basin, a rolling prairie in the shadow of the Cascade Mountains in southern Oregon, is the focus of a new American land rush.

It has nothing to do with farming or precious minerals, but with hot water.

Geologists believe this region sits atop one of the earth's richest stores of geothermal energy: vast, subterranean reservoirs of high-pressure steam and hot water capable of spinning turbine generators, producing electricity, powering industry, easing the burden on dwindling fossil fuel supplies.

"More heat energy lies within one mile of the surface in southeastern Oregon than in all of America's oil fields," said Dick Bowen, economic geologist with the Oregon Department of Geology and Mineral Industries. "Of course, we can't recover all of that. But even if we could tap 1-1000th of it, it would be significant — something on the order of the North Slope of Alaska."

Early this year, after prodding from scientists, industry leaders and politicians, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management began accepting applications for leases to explore for geothermal energy on the vast tracts of federal land in its domain.

The bureau was deluged. In the first four months of 1974, bureau regional offices in the Western states received 3,508 geothermal lease applications, covering 7,768,776 acres.

Applications came from many of the large oil companies — Mobil, Gulf, Chevron, Phillips, Sun — and dozens of smaller ones.

Geothermal energy is nothing new in these parts. A hundred years ago the Klamath Indians were using hot surface springs to cook their food and soothe arthritic limbs.

In the early 1920s, crude wells were dug and subsurface hot water was tapped for home heating.

Today, geothermal wells in this town of 16,000 provide clean, and almost cost-free heat for some 500 homes, schools and businesses along what is called the Hot Springs Belt — an area of several square miles that outlines a vast hot-water reservoir 300 to 400 feet down.

This is believed to be the most extensive use of geothermal home heating anywhere.

The economic savings of geothermal energy, even at the fundamental level of direct hot water heating, can be considerable.

For example, Oregon Institute of Technology, a four-year, state-owned college on the outskirts of Klamath Falls, was spending $94,000 a year for heating oil. Today, on a new, larger campus heated by geothermal wells, the annual heating bill is about $8,000.

Public Schools Supt. Earl Ferguson heats his home with a hot-water well and says it costs him about 3 cents a day.

Ferguson's geothermal system takes no hot water out of the ground. A city ordinance bans it to prevent depletion of supplies. Instead, in what is called a down-hole exchanger, cold water is piped into the well, heated to near boiling within the pipe by the hot ground water, then piped back up and into the house.

The exchange water, which never leaves a closed pipe system, goes through a heat transfer device similar to a car radiator, through which air is forced by a fan. The heated air is channeled through the house by ducts.

When the circuit is complete, the spent exchange water is piped back down the well to be reheated and the cycle repeats itself.

The water also heats the home's tap water in a pipe-within-a-pipe arrangement that eliminates the need for a conventional water heater.

Bowen says a new body of geophysical theory points to two sources of hot water, both virtually inexhaustible: natural decay of radioactive material in the earth's crust, and friction from migrating crustal plates.

The crust is not the static, lifeless shell it was once thought to be, but a dynamic system of endlessly shifting plates, he says.

The friction created by this movement produces incredible amounts of heat, capable of melting the surrounding bedrock to bubbling liquid that expands and seeps upward through faults and fissures.

This heat, combined with that from radioactive decay, is conducted upward through layers of rock. It heats reservoirs of ground water in its path to many times the surface boiling point. But the water, under tons of geologic pressure, doesn't boil. It remains liquid.

A well tapped into such a pressurized chamber of superheated water brings the liquid rocketing to the surface like an oil gusher. On contact with atmospheric pressure, it flashes or turns instantly to steam.

Coal Shutdown Comes To End

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The nation's soft-coal miners returned to work today following last week's five-day memorial shutdown which reduced the country's coal stockpiles.

For many miners, the shutdown was a peek at what the future might hold should the union be unable to secure the contract it wants in the upcoming negotiations.

Jerry Stevens, president of a UMW local in Indiana County, Pa., said he believes the UMW will call a strike later in the year.

Tractor Pull Victors Named

FT. RECOVERY, Ohio (AP)—Lloyd McVey of Oakwood, Ill., and Dave Stangle of Kewanna, Ind., were the big winners in the Ohio Tractor Pull Championship that ended here Sunday.

McVey won both the 7,000 pound and the 12,000 pound modified classifications while Stangle won both the 9,000 pound and 12,000 pound super-stock classifications.

Points obtained in the 10 classifications go toward determining the national championship.

"Of course, we'll be off in November for three or four months anyway," he said. "I've been saving for three years for this one."

Officially, the memorial period was to honor those who had died in the mines or from industry-related diseases. But according to Stevens, "the big mining companies say it is to delete the stock and I believe most miners are realistic enough to realize the same thing."

Some 115,000 coal miners were idled in the strike last week which closed an estimated 1,200 mines.

In the event of a strike later this year, the steel industry would be the first to cave in, industry spokesmen said. Some mills have less than a two-weeks' supply on hand.

"The supply of coal is tight going in and it is tight coming out," said a U.S. Steel official of the memorial period. "We had roughly a two-weeks' supply going in. It's less now but it's hard to tell how much."

In Alameda, U.S. Pipe and Foundry Co. Vice President John Forrester said his firm's mills had only about two weeks' supply left.

Power companies have fared better and should weather a strike more easily. Before last week's shutdown, the National Coal Association estimated that utilities had an average of 932 days of coal on hand.

Tractor Pull Set At Ohio State Fair

On Friday and Saturday the National Tractor Pullers Association and the top pullers in the U.S. and Canada will converge on the Ohio State Fair for an NTPA sanctioned pull and a $13,500 purse.

NTPA is the sanctioning body for national tractor pulling and the class B pull at Columbus promises to be one of the best tractor pulls of the Midwest.

A wide variety of super stock and modified tractors will be on hand and the modifieds will feature a wide variety of interesting engines including Allison aircraft, Packard PT boat, Ford and Continental tank, and multiple racing engines. One tractor features four 460 cu. in. Lincolns.

Tractor pulling is attracting such figures as Art Arfons, three-time land speed record holder who now drives a turbine powered tractor, as tractor pulling picks up speed on its way to becoming one of the biggest motor sports in the U.S. and Canada.

The following is the schedule of times and weight classes to be run:

Friday

Session I - 10 a.m.: Track 1 - 5,000 Super Stock; Track 2 - 5,000 Modified.
Session II - 1 p.m.: Track 1 - 9,000 Modified; Track 2 - 12,000 Super Stock.

Saturday

Session III - 10 a.m.: Track 1 - 9,000 Super Stock; Track 2 - 7,000 Modified.
Session IV - 1 p.m.: Track 1 - 7,000 Super Stock; Track 2 - 12,000 Unlimited.

Occasionally, the subterranean water gets so hot it boils thousands of feet down and surfaces as dry steam, packing more pressure and generating more power than wet steam produced by flashing. The dry steam converts more readily to electricity.

In either form, natural high-pressure steam is a valuable resource because it can produce electricity with virtually no intermediate processing. This is what the geothermal energy boom is all about.

Commercial generation of electricity with natural steam is not an innovation. A geothermal plant in Lardarello, Italy, was doing it over 50 years ago. But it was not taken seriously.

Today, geothermal generating plants are operating in California, New Zealand, Russia, Japan, Mexico and Iceland. Technological advances spurred by the recent energy crisis suggest, however, few if any of these plants is operating near potential and all of them combined are tapping only a minute fraction of the geothermal energy available.

Reds Trip Montreal; Win 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — Their power was turned off, but the Cincinnati Reds substituted equal amounts of speed and daring on the basepaths to manufacture a 3-1 victory over Montreal Expos in National League baseball Sunday.

Expos starter Dennis Blair and reliever Chuck Taylor denied the Reds an extra-base hit for the first time in 37 games, but the Big Red Machine stole four bases, including two in the eighth inning, when they erased a 1-0 deficit.

"It's tough to win a ball game when Joe Morgan doesn't play and John Bench doesn't get a hit, but we did," said Pete Rose, who drove in the first two Reds runs with a single.

Pinch-hitter Ken Griffey bounced a single off the firstbase bag to lead off the inning. He stole second and went to third as Barry Footets throw skittered into shallow center field.

Terry Crowley, pinch-hitting for winning pitcher Clay Kirby, drew a walk and gave way to Morgan, who pilfered second as well.

Morgan hadn't played to that point because of a wrist injury suffered Saturday.

Rose followed with his hit and later came home on Dan Driessen's sacrifice fly off Taylor.

Rose had three hits and stretched his current hitting streak to 11 games.

"You've got to give Kirby a lot of credit because he was struggling. He walked six guys and still kept us in the game.

Ron Fairly and Mike Jorgensen both walked with two out and Northrup drilled a pitch to right field for the first hit off Kirby.

Dodgers Cling To Division Lead

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer

It's getting to the point these days where who's on the field isn't as important as who's on the scoreboard.

"It makes us want to win all that much more when we see the Reds' scores up there on the board," said Los Angeles slugger Jimmy Wynn after the Dodgers walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3 Sunday to stay 2½ games ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West.

And what the Cardinals saw on the scoreboard was something equally challenging — and frustrating. They saw Pittsburgh beating San Diego 4-1 and 10-2 and saw themselves falling out of first place in the East, one-half game behind the Pirates.

"It's still early," insisted St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst. "What do we have — 34 more games? I've said all along this thing is going to go down to the final week, maybe even the final day.

In Sunday's other National League games, the New York Mets nipped Atlanta 1-0, the Cincinnati Reds defeated Montreal 3-1, the Houston Astros blanked Philadelphia 5-0 and the San Francisco Giants beat Chicago 4-3.

Ron Cey led the Dodgers' 14-hit attack with a two-run homer in a five-run first inning and followed Wynn's two-run double with an RBI-single in the sixth.

Pirates 4-10, Padres 1-2

The Pirates walked all over San Diego in their stroll into first place.

Johnny Miller Wins Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — "I've really been in contention, in position to win, seven times this year — and I've won six," Johnny Miller said.

"You shouldn't win more than one out of three.

"It's a joke, really, a joke."

But Miller, who scored his sixth victory of the season by a record 19-under par score in the rich Westchester Golf Classic, was dead serious Sunday when he said he would skip next year's PGA national championship if he is not allowed to use his regular tour caddy — Andy Martinez.

"If I can't use my caddy, I definitely will not play in the PGA," Miller said after his final round 67, five-under-par, had provided him with a two-stroke victory over journeyman Don Bies, with Tom Weiskopf and Jack Nicklaus once again frustrated, unsuccessful challengers.

Miller's 269 total was a record for the 6,614-yard Westchester Country Club course. He collected $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000, pushed his leading money winning total to $255,567 and, with six titles, has won twice as many tournaments as any other player on the tour this season.

"Towe this one to my caddy," the 27-year-old Miller said. He explained that his professional, touring caddy, Andy Martinez, helped him correct a flaw in his swing early last week and made another correction in his putting stroke.

The PGA national championship is one of the game's four major tests. The Masters and U.S. Open also prohibit the use of touring caddies, but Miller said those are exceptions and he could continue to play in those tournaments.

Bies, who has never won, had a final

66 for 271. Weiskopf, often a challenger but still seeking his first title of the year, had a closing 68 for 272 and third alone. His $17,750 check put him over the $1 million mark in career earnings and put him on a plateau with Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, Bruce Crampton and Gary Player as the only men to achieve that figure in career earnings.

Chipper Jerry McGee got fourth with a 68-274, and Nicklaus tied with Larry Ziegler at 275.

Palmer had one of his worst rounds in recent years, an 80 and a 292 total. Player was well back at 73-283. Trevino did not compete.

Redskins Nip Browns In 20-17 Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP) — Washington Redskin Mark Mosley almost gave up the game of football last year because of a physical that disclosed he had a slipped disc.

Saturday night he kicked two field goals and one of them came with two seconds remaining, enabling the Redskins to nip the Cleveland Browns 20-17 in a National Football League exhibition game.

"I would have tried it from 60 yards if I had to," said Mosley, whose winning boot sailed 43 yards. "Before the game I wasn't hitting very good. I tried from 52 yards and was short. But it seems like once the game gets going the adrenalin flows."

Mosley came to the Redskins camp this year as a free agent.

Washington fought back from a 17-3 deficit in the last 15:10 seconds of the game under the guidance of rookie quarterback Joe Theismann. Theismann replaced veteran Billy Kilmer.

"We should have scored earlier," said Theismann, who spent three years in the Canadian League. "When we got in the huddle at the two somebody suggested that we go 98 yards and we did."

Theismann was talking about the tie scoring drive that took 15 plays and ended with Moses Denson going in from the three with 1:50 remaining.

The first Washington touchdown came with 10 seconds remaining in the third period and was setup when Browns rookie quarterback Will Cureton fumbled on the Browns one-yard line.

Woman Wins Final Round Of Trapshoot

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — If diamonds are truly a girl's best friend, women trapshooters who took part in the Diamond Jubilee Grand Association Tournament are now firm believers of this legend.

For the first time in the 75-year history of the event, a woman won a major handicap. The tournament ended Saturday.

Ruth Keim, 34, of Tenaflay, N. J., took the last event of the tournament, the Vandalia Handicap. She won it with a 99, defeating three men in a shootout.

"I'm really excited not only to win but to be the first woman to take a handicap," Mrs. Keim, mother of four, said.

On Friday, in the Grand American Handicap—the biggest trapshooting event in the world — another woman, Georgia McCowan of Newman, Ill., tied for the championship.

She had a score of 99, but in a shoot-off held in a driving rain she lost out to the new grand champion John Steffen of Minnetonka, Minn.

Another woman, Lou Ann Munson, of Howard Lake, Minn., placed sixth after a shoot-off with 10 men. All had scores of 98.

"It has always been possible for a woman to win," Ron Peters, tournament director, said. "Actually, the winner is determined solely by the person having the best score, be it a man, woman or junior.

"There are more women shooting now, shooting more often and shooting better," he said.

The tournament surpassed all the expectations of ATA officials. Participation records fell in every event Monday through Saturday.

Bow Hunters Shoot 15-Point Course

ON TARGET—Dave Massie, 706 S. Clinton St., takes aim at the target on the right. Looking on are David Brown, 369 Walnut St.; Pete Noble, 380 Walnut Creek Pike; and Don Smith, Wilson Trailer Court. Massie won the Bare Class A shoot Sunday.

TREE STAND—Mick Riley, 228 Parklawn Dr., takes aim at a target from a tree stand on the Pickaway Bow Hunters Course Sunday. He won the novelty shoot.

Nineteen shooters participated in the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen's Association's match Sunday at the Pickaway Bow Hunters Course.

The Bow Hunters, a division of the association, hold matches on the second and fourth Sundays of the month. There are 15 points on the roving course with target distances varying from five to 55 yards.

The course is located at the association's recreation area east of Circleville on Route 22.

Dave Massie won the Bare Class A for shooters without bow sights. Class B winner was Don Smith and Bruce Sampsill won Class C.

Pete Noble, Bow Hunters' chairman, was the Class A winner with sights. Class B winner was Don Benner. Mick Riley won the novelty shoot.

Members of the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen's Association will be observing National Hunting and Fishing Day Saturday, Sept. 28.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): This day should bring rewards for past efforts, even if you seem to lack the initiative to start new undertakings. If expanding operations, however, move with caution.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Stellar influences indicate some pressure in business matters, but remain steadfast and hopeful. All will work out. Personal affairs promise to be interesting.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Some unusual situations indicated, extraordinary persons with whom to deal. Use the Geminian's ingenuity and ability to profit by experience in coping.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Intuition, reflexes, the germination of good ideas stimulated now. Do not take on too much, however, or you could make errors through haste.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A top day for displaying your canny sense of timing and ability to cut deadwood from your schedule. Some new opportunities in the offing.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Above-average opportunities indicated, but you may have to seek out some for yourself. It will be possible now to obtain cooperation you could not get in the past.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You may have a hankering to do something in a way not supported by logic. Better think about the consequences—to yourself and others. Be alert, perceptive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): If you have any doubt about projects, reconsider them, but subdue unreasonable fears. Give a thought to earlier successful moves. They could guide you now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Don't lose patience with slower, even aggravating persons: It will only upset you, may result in fruitless disputes. Also, avoid pessimists and troublemakers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): "Retreat" is a word not usually found in your vocabulary, but it could be used strategically now to reinforce strength, improve tactics.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Under splendid auspices are health, recreational and intellectual pursuits. Also favored: artistic interests.

MINI-MINISTER — Roy Peden Jr., 11, is an associate minister at the King Solomon Baptist church in Louisville, Ky.

Donna Milburn Attends Camp

Donna Milburn, daughter of Mr. Robert W. Milburn, 323 Meadow Lane, was one of 200 young people in Ohio to participate in the 39th Ohio State 4-H Conservation Camp, held at Camp Ohio.

DONNA MILBURN

While at camp, Donna learned about water resources, outdoor and recreation, forestry, land and its use and wildlife. Campers also visited a nearby sawmill, strip mine, water treatment plant and power plant. Other activities included fishing, cookouts, nature crafts, recreation and swimming.

The camp was sponsored by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service with support from Gene Derickson, Ohio Federation of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, Columbus; C. L. Horn, Federal-Cardridge Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn. and R. H. Oman, The Columbus Foundation, Columbus.

Such conservation camps are held in 30 states and annually give thousands of young people the opportunity to learn more about the conservation of our natural resources.

The Ohio camp, in its 39th year, is one of the oldest conservation education programs in existence.

Muscular Dystrophy Carnival Planned

A neighborhood Carnival Against Dystrophy will be held 1-5 p.m. Tuesday by Loretta Gibson, 1114 S. Washington St.

Mrs. Mary Gibson, assisted by Naomi Gibson, will serve as Ringmaster.

The carnival will feature games such as darts, fortune telling, penny sale, bean bag toss, treasure hunt and bowling on the green.

Harris Jury Selection Underway

A jury is being selected today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court to hear charges against Richard Joe Harris, Route 1, Mt. Sterling.

Harris was indicted by the April Grand Jury in its third session for aggravated arson and attempted jail break in the county jail. The crimes allegedly took place on June 14.

Representing Harris in the trial is L. P. Henderson and representing the state of Ohio is Richard L. Gerhardt and James R. Kingsley of the county prosecutor's office.

Man Charged With Carrying Concealed Gun

Lawrence R. Cupp, 43, 112 Watt St., was released on $5024 bond by Circleville Police on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and intoxication.

Cupp was arrested at 3:30 a.m. Sunday by Ptl. Ron Thompson.

According to the report, Cupp called police headquarters and asked to talk with Ptl. Thompson. Thompson replied by telephone, but a meeting was requested by Cupp.

Ptl. Thompson met Cupp on N. Court St. and observed that he was "highly intoxicated." After twice asking Cupp to leave the cruiser and return home, Ptl. Thompson took him to police headquarters where he charged him with intoxication.

During the booking, Ptl. Thompson discovered a .32 caliber automatic pistol in the man's pocket.

Driver Cited For Leaving Accident Scene

Robert Lee Pettibone, 44, South Bloomfield, was cited, by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Dixon, for leaving the scene of an accident, 6 p.m. Saturday.

Pettibone pulled into the private drive of Tommy Pettibone, Route 1, Ashville, owner of Pettibone Construction Co., and rammed a vehicle parked in his garage.

The second vehicle was forced into the wall of the garage.

Pettibone then backed up and left the scene of the accident.

Bible College Gets Vet Rep

Charles A. Hurley, a 1964 graduate of Circleville High School, will be the Veterans Administration's "man-on-campus" for Circleville Bible College beginning August 1.

The VA's new program is designed to provide personalized service to veterans receiving educational assistance benefits under the GI Bill.

Under the new program announced in May by the VA, each college in the nation will have a Vet Rep either on campus or have access to a traveling Vet Rep from a nearby college on a regular schedule.

Hurley, who joined the VA in July, was one of 1,327 Vet Reps hired or assigned from within the VA for the positions. Priority was given to Vietnam Era veterans who have experienced campus life.

He received orientation at the VA regional office in Cleveland, and returned July 20 from an intensive two-week course conducted at Case Western University in Cleveland for Vet Reps from the 14 middle-America states.

Vet Reps will be prepared to resolve individual payment inquiries. They are expected to eliminate many payment delays caused by changes of address, dependency status, or a change in school courses, and will also be on hand to assure that proper certification is made by both student and the school.

Vet Reps will also contact veterans who drop out of college to encourage their return, serve as liaison for all campus veteran groups, and brief them on benefit matters, and consult with college officials and faculty on VA matters.

Hurley, who lives near Buckeye Lake, is a Vietnam Era veteran having served in the U.S. Air Force from 1965 to 1969.

He is attending Ohio University and will receive a bachelor degree in Business Administration.

The Vet Rep will be located at the Administration Building on campus one day a month.

Child Birth Clinic Scheduled

Registration is open for a "prepared child birth clinic" scheduled to be held in Circleville.

Mrs. Patricia Meyer, a registered nurse with a Bachelor of Science in nursing (RNBS) and a member of the International Childbirth Education Association, will be teaching the course.

For registration or further information call Mrs. Meyer at 474-4410.

Leukemia Society Plans Campaign

During September 18,000 volunteers will be ringing doorbells throughout Central Ohio asking your help to support the Leukemia Society's program of research, patient aid and public and professional education.

The Leukemia Society is a voluntary health agency with 49 chapters located throughout the country — three are located in Ohio-Cleveland, Columbus and Dayton. The Central Ohio Chapter is responsible for 39 counties.

The Leukemia Society's main accent is research. There are currently two researchers supported by the Leukemia Society in the Central Ohio area. Dr. Arthur Sagone, at the Ohio State University has a $100,000 scholarship which began July 1, 1973 and will run for five years. Dr. Samuel Murphy, Ohio State University, has a 2 year $31,000 fellowship which began July 1, 1973 and will run for five years.

In addition to research, the Society provides local patient aid. Currently the Central Ohio Chapter is giving assistance to over 50 patients.

The third phase of the Leukemia Society's program is public and professional education. Information, speakers, movies and programs are available upon request.

Carbon Monoxide Dangers Increase

CHICAGO (AP) — Researchers said today that nearly half of all non-smoking Americans have dangerous levels of carbon monoxide in their blood.

And for those who smoke cigarettes, the problem is even more severe, the researchers at the Medical College of Wisconsin found.

The study, contained in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, reports on a 30-month survey during 1969-72 of 29,000 blood donors living in urban, suburban and rural areas.

Automobile exhaust is a major source of environmental carbon monoxide. High levels of the noxious gas are especially harmful to the elderly, infants and heart patients.

Federal standards set blood concentrations of 1.5 per cent or more of carbon monoxide as the harmful level.

The study was done by Dr. Richard D. Stewart and his associates in the department of environmental medicine at the Milwaukee college.

They found that 45 per cent of those tested had concentrations of carbon monoxide exceeding the federal standard.

They also found that "tobacco smoking was the single most important factor" responsible for the highest concentrations of carbon monoxide. Smokers had three or more times the amount in their blood as nonsmokers.

High levels of the gas reduce the amount of oxygen the blood can carry through the body.

It can cause drowsiness, blurred vision and reduced mental alertness. Extremely high levels in confined places can be fatal.

Geographical location, occupation and meteorological conditions also were found to influence carbon monoxide concentrations in the blood.

Three-fourths of those studied in Denver, Los Angeles and Chicago had greater than 1.5 per cent concentrations. In New York and Washington, D.C., 35 per cent were measured at that level.

The researchers found that city dwellers consistently had higher blood carbon monoxide concentrations than persons living in suburban and rural areas.

Among occupational groups, taxicab drivers generally had higher levels of carbon monoxide than others.

Bakery Notes Income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Big Drum, Inc., a bakery and related goods producer, reported its net income for six months ending June 30 was $1,044,174, or $1.03 a share. In a similar period last year net income was $935,695, or 92 cents a share. Operating earnings for the period were the highest in the company's history.

Norwalk Man Drowns

HURON, Ohio (AP) — Robert Cooper, 23, of Norwalk, drowned Sunday while attempting to swim from a boat to shore at a public beach, police said.

Ohio Crashes Fatal To 8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least eight persons lost their lives in traffic accidents over the weekend, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported today.

All died in separate accidents. The dead included a pedestrian and a motorcyclist.

The weekend count extends from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY
PIQUA — Carole E. Wood, 35, of Covington, when the car in which she was riding left a Miami County road and rolled over in a ditch three miles from Piqua.

NEWARK — Forest Carrothers, 38, of Newark, in a single-car accident in Licking County.

OTTAWA — Mary Ostendorf, 54, of Cloverdale, when struck by a car while walking down a Putnam County road.

CINCINNATI — Theodore Cronin, 17, of Cincinnati, in a two-car accident on a Cincinnati street.

SATURDAY

ASHLAND — Margaret E. Earnest, 80, of Fredericktown, in a two-car accident in Ashland County.

NEWARK — Thomas Roberts, 20, of Toboso, when the car in which he was riding struck a utility pole at the north-west edge of Newark.

ATHENS — Paul Coppick Jr., 26, of Jackson, when the motorcycle he was riding left a road in heavy fog and crashed into a church.

FRIDAY NIGHT

DEFIANCE — Roger Smurr, 24, of Defiance, in a one-car accident on Ohio 424 east of Defiance.

WARD'S CARDINAL MARKET
IN DOWNTOWN CIRCLEVILLE
166 W. MAIN ST.

WE WANT TO SELL CARS. YOU WANT TO SAVE MONEY.

IT'S THAT SIMPLE.

Right now, many Chevrolet dealers are offering year-end savings on in-stock Vegas.

Vega is America's best-selling little car.

Good gas mileage, sporty good looks, good handling.
That's a lot to ask of a little car. Well, that's Vega.

And no matter which Vega model you favor, Vega Notchback right on up through the Vega Hatchback GT and Vega wagons, you really ought to ask your dealer about year-end savings now while he has '74s in stock that he wants to clear out. He'll be able to tell you more about Vega's responsiveness and economy, too.

Chevrolet wants to sell cars, you want to save money.
That's why Chevrolet's Year-End Savings Plan makes sense.

Chevrolet makes sense for America.
